Air conditioning/heat pump substitution

Restaurant headquarters

in Leicester, Midlands

Complete comfort for employee well-being.

This famous restaurant chain encourages good conditions for their employees, so when they renovated their staff rooms and needed a quality heating system, they turned to the trusted name in electric heating - Rointe. Their office design company recommended us to these project owners after installing Rointe systems in their own offices.

The previous system used air conditioning to heat the spaces. This was ineffective due to a single heat release site above one location, so the heat was not transferred to the surrounding area or rooms located off the main space.

THE SOLUTION

A Technical Study was conducted to determine the radiators required and the correct size per room to heat the space effectively. The Kyros radiator was chosen for its compact design, visual menus and control panel locking function (so the temperature could not be tampered with).

THE RESULT

As these radiators are so easy to install, the heating system was ready to go in just one day with minimal disruption and the staff can now relax away from their desks in a warm atmosphere.

EASY INSTALLATION

As the installation of the Kyros heating system is so easy, this meant that there was minimal disruption to the employees of this busy restaurant headquarters. The staff now enjoy quality heat that enhances their working day.
